Seeds of Terror/Media Arab Wrl
Restricted to Undergrad - Urbana-Champaign.
Course focuses on how and why Arab media create positive or negative images of the U.S in the Arab street, which in turn may increase or decrease terrorism attitudes and Anti-America behaviors. The course will examine criteria that differentiate Arab countries and affect coverage, including type of regime, location, economic resources, and regional and international relations, and will examine major themes such as the global war on terrorism, Arab-Israeli conflict, Sunni-Shia conflict, Arab Spring consequences, democracy and human rights, oil and weapons trade, and to a lesser extent struggles in Eastern Europe, East Asia, and climate change. No prerequisite courses or experience in Arabic language is required.

Topics in Religious Thought
Restricted to Undergrad - Urbana-Champaign.
What is fascism? Can the study of religion help us understand fascism? How do fascism and religion bear on America? Addressing these and other important questions, this interdisciplinary seminar moves through relevant readings in political theory, rhetorical analysis, cultural history, postcolonial literature, and investigative journalism. Research projects allow each participant to supplement our collective effort by exploring an individual interest in greater detail. Course syllabus available at https://fra17f.wordpress.com <https://fra17f.wordpress.com> Meets with CLCV 490 and CWL 490
